

WARFIELD DIES AT ANNAPOLIS

Maryland's Former Governor Famed for Ability And Surety Plans.

Annapolis, Md., March 31.—Ex-Governor Edwin Warfield died this morning at 8:30 o'clock at his home, 1223 Linden avenue. His family were at his bedside. Mr. Warfield had been failing for some time.

He is survived by his widow and four children: Mrs. William Hugh Harris, Mrs. Louise Ledochowska, Miss Emma Warfield, and Edwin Warfield, Jr.

To Warfield is due the credit of greatly extending the surety business. He was founder of the Fidelity and Deposit Company, and for many years its president. Governor Warfield was one of the most striking figures in the Roosevelt inaugural parade on March 4, 1905. His white hair, distinguished bearing and fine horsemanship evoked cheers from the crowd. He was born May 7, 1848, at Oakdale, Howard County, educated in the public schools of Howard County, and at the age of 18 began teaching school and the study of law. Always he took a keen interest in public affairs. In 1881 he was elected to the State senate, and was known for his ability as a speaker. President Cleveland appointed him surveyor of the port of Baltimore in April, 1886. He was elected delegate at large to the national Democratic convention in 1896. He was first candidate for Governor in 1899, but his election did not take place until the next election in 1903, when he defeated Stephenson A. Williams, the Republican nominee, by a large majority. As Governor he showed himself an able executive, firm in his convictions, and consistent and clear in policy.

and famous statesmen, is well known and of great value. That Gov. Warfield had a mind of his own was illustrated when, on the day following the Baltimore fire, he declared a bank holiday. He was strongly advised against this by financial and commercial interests, who feared a break-down of the banking system unless the banks were open as usual. But the governor declared the patrons of the banks need a "breathing spell," and events justified his judgment.

N. Y. TAKES ACTION TO CURB HIGH RENT

(By Herald Leased Wire.) Albany, N. Y., March 31. Ten bills, composing the program of the joint legislative housing committee, aimed to curb rent profiteering, were passed by the State legislature today and will be the laws of the State of New York before midnight. The entire program passed the senate late this afternoon by unanimous vote, and the heated debate over the Socialist ouster in the assembly was halted long enough to have the lower house pass the bills. The measures were rushed to night to the governor for signature.

D. C. MILK LAWS UP IN CONGRESS

Three Bills Considered by Subcommittee Yesterday And Fourth Coming.

The framing of model milk laws for the District of Columbia will be attempted by the Walters subcommittee of the House District Committee which held a hearing on three bills to regulate the sale of milk yesterday. A fourth bill will be presented to the committee before it meets again next Tuesday.

A bill presented by Representative R. Walton Moore, of Virginia, details regulations for the sale of milk in the District. A bill introduced by Representative Gard, of Ohio, would place authority to make milk regulations in the hands of the District health officer, to be approved by the Secretary of Agriculture and the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service.

A second bill introduced by Moore would protect the owners of bottles by making it an offense to use or misappropriate another dealer's bottles.

Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, has framed a bill and presented it to the District Commissioners for approval. It will be introduced, probably by Chairman Mapes, of the District Committee, and turned over to the Walters subcommittee.

Matthew O'Brien, counsel for the milk dealers of the District, appeared before the committee yesterday morning and protested against the provisions of the Gard bill, as did Representative Moore.

Baptists Ask Wilson to Speak.

President Wilson yesterday was requested to make the opening address at the Southern Baptist Convention, to be held here May 12-17. Representative Upshaw, of Georgia, headed the delegation which extended the invitation.

She Quits District Post to Enter Public Health Service

From assistant District probation officer to a responsible post in the Public Health Service is the step about to be taken by Miss Emily Greer, who has been "checking up" probationers of the Capital Juvenile Court.

Miss Greer has been assigned to the Public Health Service unit at North Platte, Nebr., and will take up her duties on April 1. She is a native of Columbus, Ohio.

MISS EMILY GREER.

Police Court probationers are mourning the departure of their guardian angel, Miss Emily Greer, assistant probation officer, who has accepted a position with the Public Health Service at North Platte, Nebr.

And the partially forgiven offenders whom she has kept on the "straight and narrow" are wondering if her successor will have all the qualities of sympathy and tact and kindness that Miss Greer has displayed so unrelentingly.

Not that Miss Greer has Polly Anned all the way. There are times when long-suffering tolerance and forgiveness are not the best of qualities. On these occasions, Miss Greer haled parole breakers right into court and made them take their medicine.

But because she liked her work so genuinely she has enjoyed it all, the good probationers that really needed no watching, the naughty ones that had to be "checked up" on continually, and the unfortunates that needed mothering.

And a mother is what she has been to the thousands of those "out o' luck" who have come under her care. She has looked out for them in every way. If they were "broken" and helpless for the time being, she helped them to get on their feet financially through charitable institutions. She has furnished the driving power to the impulse to "make good" in spite of all the temptations and disadvantages and discouragements that beset the feet of the one who has slipped.

And those she worked among understood and properly valued the fine, unswerving service she gave them.

Miss Greer is a native of Columbus, Ohio.

NEW CHAMPION HELPING POLICE

Rep. James Introduces Bill Raising Pensions of Retired Force.

Another bill to place retired police and firemen of the District of Columbia on the same financial status as those pensioned under a higher basic rate of pay was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative W. Frank James, of Michigan.

The bill provides that all policemen in the District, pensioned under laws enacted prior to December 5, 1915, shall be entitled to the same rating and pensions, and shall receive a pension equal to that now being granted, or that may hereafter be granted, retired or pensioned policemen.

It makes the same provisions for all firemen pensioned under legislation enacted prior to January 24, 1920. Both this bill and a former one introduced by James were caused by increased living costs rendering present pensions inadequate, while those now being pensioned received a higher rate, owing to increased salaries.

The bill further provides that such police and firemen shall be entitled to all pension benefits resulting from any and all increases in pay that may hereafter be granted by Congress to the police and firemen of the District.

Dead Can't Dodge H. C. L. Prices of graves have been boosted in most cemeteries in Toledo. As a result the final resting places are pretty well picked over. Many persons are buying to escape higher prices in the future.

Police and Firemen Lose Out When Senate Votes $240 Bonus To District Federal Employees

A bonus of $240 for government employees in the District for the ensuing fiscal year was approved yesterday by the Senate. The vote came after long debate on an amendment by Senator Calder, of New York, making police and firemen of Washington eligible to the bonus. The Calder amendment was rejected.

An amendment by Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, to give police and firemen a bonus of $150 also was rejected.

Senators Warren, of Wyoming, and Smoot, of Utah, were bitter in their opposition to the bonus for members of the police and fire departments, declaring that, since they already had received raises under other legislation, to give them the bonus would cause dissatisfaction and loss of morale on the part of other government employees. Speeches were made in favor of the Calder amendment by Senators Harrison, Henderson, of Nevada; Pomerehne, of Ohio, and Calder.

"What can we say to government employees," asked Senator Warren, "who have been serving the nation for thirty-five years without a raise of salary, if we make men eligible to a bonus whose salaries have in many cases been raised $200 or more within the past few months? The proposal is class legislation of the worst kind."

Senator Smoot said: "There is not an employee of the police or fire department who has not received a raise of $200 or more. Under the terms of the bonus provision their chiefs would be violating the law to recommend them for the bonus in any case. If we attempt to discriminate in favor of the police and firemen there is nothing to do but to make all other classes of Federal employees eligible who have been excluded from the bonus because their salaries have been raised."

However, Senator Calder declared: "Since last December six men have been appointed to the police force and six have resigned. It not only is impossible to keep up the morale of the force on which we depend for public safety, but it will be impossible to keep up its personnel unless the men are better paid. It is not a question of discrimination." Senator Pomerehne pointed out that

Death of "Yuppy," Mongrel Mascot, Grieves Children

New York, March 31.—"Yuppy is dead."

Tears dimmed the eyes of little boys and girls this morning as they read this notice, chalked on the rear wall of police headquarters.

Yuppy, an ordinary little mongrel pup, had been the ward of the block since she wandered into the neighborhood of police headquarters March 13. Every little boy and girl provided her with bones and biscuits and occasional chocolate drops on which Yuppy sustained her young life.

Yuppy had no pedigree to worry about, but she was endowed with a certain charm that won many friends for her. And this morning, when Yuppy was run over by an automobile and mercifully dispatched to rest by a policeman's bullet, all the kids of the neighborhood went into mourning.

there was little hope of action on the report of the Reclassification Commission by this Congress, and said he favored giving the bonus to policemen and firemen during the interim.
